

When Sinclair
Broadcasting decided to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
it made me wake up
and see the damage
that has been done
to the media by the
consolidation of ownership.

Large corporations
are now controlling
the airwaves. They would like to see Bush reelected
because he has managed to give away
so much of our country to corporate interests in just
four short years.
The media is no longer unbiased, or even accurate. The broadcast of this
"documentary" is
just another example
of our democracy
turning into a
corporacracy.

We need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license
renewal process
needs to involve
more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
